UPCOMING SEMINARS:

Scott Anderle, PT, CAPS, may be coming to a city near you to present a seminar on universal and accessible home design.

Announcing the Launch of Our New Website:

After months of preparation, dedication and hard work to prepare for this exciting day, Specialized Home Design, Inc. (SHD) is delighted to officially announce the launch our newly designed website. The new site launched on June 9th, 2011, and is now available. The new URL is: <http://www.shdesigns.net/home>.

At SHD, our goal for the new website is to provide our visitors with an extremely user friendly website. The new innovative site will offer more functionality and easier navigation with more in-depth information about universal and accessible home design.

There is much more information to read about, such as information about SHD, information about the owner and how SHD came to be as well as services we offer. Under the Learning center, we have given a substantial amount of detailed information through our galleries, reference books and videos in the media library. We have also added related websites that allow visitors to be able to reference even more information...and finding Scott's upcoming seminars are easier than ever to view with just a simple click of a button. Also within the Learning Center are information sources ranging from educational articles and areas of interest to viewing our monthly newsletter online. The list of resources is extensive in nature whether you are looking for universal design floor plans or searching out specialty products for the home environment.

So, whether you are "just looking" or you are seeking more specific details about a ramp to use or maybe seeking more information regarding the differences in elevators or chair lifts, we are here to help you learn more as we strive to give the most updated information and offer great learning tools for different types of guests that visit our site.

There is so much more information on this site that we can't possibly list everything, so we encourage you to explore our dynamic website. While you're at it, you can sign up for a free CHER® (Comprehensive Home Evaluation Report) account which offers even more specific details and information pertaining to universal and accessible home design. You can visit our new website at:

launch an easy one, you may experience pages that may not load correctly during this transition. A problem with the page not loading is more than likely a result of your browser's cache memory having our "old" site in it and this will eventually correct itself and eventually our new website links will load properly. However, if it does not, you can disable your cache (in Firefox) until your browser recognizes the new website by following the directions here. You can clear your Internet Explorer, Firefox, Google chrome or other browser's cache by following the directions here. If you need further assistance you can check with your IT department. If your IT department is unable to help, you can contact SHD through our website link here.

SUMMER'S HERE:

LET'S TALK SUMMER TRAVEL IDEAS

With summer approaching (here for many of you already), many vacationers may already have their summer travel plans made. But some are still thinking about where to go on vacation and some haven't even made it that far. For some, the thought of making travel plans is enough to make one break out in hives. Imagine what it must be like for those who have disabilities or have special travel needs? It must seem like a nightmare!!! In this edition of Access Abilities, I am going to attempt to help you find a few destinations that are accessible. The possibilities are endless, however, I have listed two on opposite sides of the US.

The first is an amusement park in San Antonio, TX. This was built for those with special needs in mind.

MORGANS WONDERLAND

Morgan's Wonderland is located in San Antonio, Texas. It is the World's First Ultra Accessible Family Fun Park designed specifically for children and adults with special needs and their family members, caregivers, friends and the entire community. Morgan's Wonderland is a 25-acre park which was built for people that have abilities to "play", along with their family & friends,
