

Medical Practitioners

- Physical/Occupational therapists –these professionals will be involved in making recommendations for the home environment (i.e. space relationships and specialty products). Depending on the relationship, the client may be their patient or their client. If this medical practitioner is the client’s therapist, they will use medical judgment with their recommendations. However, if the medical practitioner is a home modification specialist and the client is not their patient they will still call out space relationships and specialty products for the home environment. This report will and should be reviewed by the medical practitioners of the client.
- Physician – for most catastrophic injury cases, one will view the physiatrist as the team captain. There may be other physician(s) involved with the client and home modification project. However, most third party payers (i.e. insurance companies) will seek the support of the physiatrist (team captain) when making final determinations regarding reimbursement for home modification projects.
